

Beat saber

Beat Saber is a VR rhythm game. The objective is simple: slice colored blocks with corresponding colored lightsabers in time with the music. It's surprisingly addictive!

You'll need a VR headset and motion controllers to play. That's the essential equipment.

Some downsides? Well, it can get a little repetitive after a while, even though it's super fun. Also, the song list, while good, isn't massive, and buying extra tracks can add up. Plus, let's be real, VR equipment isn't cheap, so that's a barrier to entry for some.

Despite those drawbacks, I recommend Beat Saber. It's a fantastic workout, a great party game, and just plain fun. If you're looking for a unique and engaging VR experience, and you're okay with the cost, definitely give it a try.
